Foreword

A closed door, like a magnet, pulls one toward it. With a feeling of curiosity and, perhaps, fear we approach the unknown that is to be found behind the door. Throughout our life we will ever be faced with the challenge to walk through doorways and accept what is to be found beyond.

With the end of summer vacation, a new school term was before us. This was the end of high school days for Seniors, but for Freshmen now it had begun. The never ending search for knowledge of our world and ourselves. Doors opened and a glimpse of the vastness of the human mind and of the universe became more and more apparent. Many doors leading to more knowledge and new experiences were opened each day by those who guided us toward the future. We discovered open doors that revealed a world of athletic contests, where physical competition was a serious business, but entertaining for spectators, fun for participants, and an experience in good sportsmanship. Extra curricular and co-curricular programs of the school were important, too, for learning came in many guises. Passive, as well as active involvement in school activities brought not only pleasure, but also new attitudes, insight, and awareness of the many facets of life. Club periods scheduled on school time gave an opportunity to share like interests with others. Planning and working together made for strength in purpose and common goals.

All too swiftly, the year passed. Commencement Night arrived and those of us who were seniors took a final walk through the corridors, past doors which had opened upon many experiences, and on toward the doorway leading to a place in the community.

HAROLD L. MUTCHLER

Dedication

We, the Class of 1969, dedicate this Mountaineer to you, Harold L. Mutchler.

During our years at South High, you made a lasting impression upon our minds with your helpful suggestions for keeping physically fit. The enthusiasm you generated toward a physical fitness program led to the establishment of the swimming and bowling classes for all students in their junior year of high school, developing new skills and adding enjoyment to the task of keeping their bodies healthy. Concern for boys and girls who could not participate in the regular physical education program resulted in classes geared to their individual needs and requirements. Your assistance proved to be beneficial to them. Problems and issues concerning health were the centers of discussions and debates in the health classes under your direction, making each session interesting and informative.

The skill of the gymnast was brought into focus as part of the athletic program of our school through your determined efforts to develop an interest in gymnastic competition among students. The excellent boys' and girls' gym teams were a result of these efforts.

For your concern in the physical well-being of the students at South High, we offer our sincere thanks.

VERONICA M. MUZIC

Appreciation

During our Sophomore and Junior years, Mrs. Veronica M. Muzic served as class advisor. We will remember her efforts to direct us toward a life of fulfillment, her vital leadership, and her never-ending concern with our various class projects. Mrs. Muzic's encouragement made our candy and calendar sales successful and the Prom in our Junior year a memory never to be forgotten. For her service as an excellent advisor, teacher, and friend, we express our sincere gratitude to Mrs. Muzic.

As principal when we were underclassmen, Robert W. Mahaffey encouraged all of the students in their endeavor for the future, as well as helping them solve problems of the present. By his concern for all the boys and girls at South Williamsport High School, he demonstrated his genuine interest in us not only academically, but personally as well. For his inspiring leadership as principal at South High, we thank Mr. Mahaffey.

Our special thanks to David M. Smith for his excellent management in the staging of our class plays and preparation of the music and visual setting for Baccalaureate. Mr. Smith gave valuable assistance at Commencement and showed a sincere interest in the activities of our class, particularly by his service as advisor for the Mountaineer.

District Officials Planned For

Superintendent

The nine members of the South Williamsport Area School Board met twice each month to decide upon issues concerning the operation of the area schools. They were responsible for the establishment of administrative policies, faculty appointments, and the maintenance of all educational facilities within the district. Officers of the board for the year 1969 were: Sherman R. Reigle, Jr., president; Mario Caldera, vice president; George B. Renninger, treasurer; and Francis G. Poeth, secretary.

The school directors elected Robert L. Johnson as Superintendent of Schools upon the retirement Raymond R. Rommelt, Supervising Principal. Mr. Johnson, working with the elected school officials and instructional staff, was responsible for the efficient and proper function of the educational system of the community.

The clerical staff of the district office, as with any big business, was responsible for the compilation of seemingly endless reports, census statistics, tax information, etc. The district secretary, Mr. Poeth, and his staff took care of the unseen details and requirements in the operation of the area schools. From the issuance of working papers for students to the publication of specifications on equipment to be put out for bidding, the office was constantly involved in the business of providing the best educational opportunities for the youths of the community.

FRANCIS G. POETH

Community Educational Needs

As secretary to the Superintendent, Miss Pamela Denius confirms appointments for the day.

Tax computations are but one of many duties performed by Mrs. Eva Plankenhorn in the district office.

Leaders Helped Students

WILLIAM J. HILL
Principal

Students returning for the 1968–69 school term found familiar faces in new positions. William J. Hill, former guidance counselor and assistant principal, assumed the duties of high school principal and James Revello became a guidance counselor. At mid-term, Rodney K. Morgans, of the junior high school faculty and head football coach, was appointed assistant to the principal. South's administration and faculty has been a dedicated one, genuinely interested in molding their students into mature young men and women. They have shown their devotion, not only through classroom work, but through hours of their own time spent on extracurricular activities. Our teachers have always been willing to provide individual assistance in our school work and with any problems we may have. Their friendship and guidance was as important as the education they offered.

Accounts of the various student organizations are kept in order by Mrs. Eleanor Sobers.

Checking schedules, daily attendance, and operating the switchboard is handled by Mrs. Maxine Hallowell.

A Curriculum Designed To Train The Mind

One of the mathematics classes, Geometry, taught by Mr. Bergesen.

At the South Williamsport Area High School, courses were offered in the fields of Mathematics, Science, and English. In some degree, they were required of all students, thus forming a base for a well-rounded high school program in the Academic, Business Education, Vocational Home Economics, and General courses.

Scientific studies included the areas of Biology, Physiology, Physics, Chemistry, Earth Science and General Science. In well equipped rooms, students experienced the wonders of the world of science through the use of laboratory devices. The use of audio-visual aids brought into the classroom examples and explanations of scientific processes which otherwise might have remained vague.

Mathematics courses, lessons in logical reasoning, included algebra, geometry, trigonometry, basic and college math review. These studies were designed to fit the needs of students enrolled in the general curriculum, as well as the more specialized academic and business education areas.

English and social studies were the backbone of the curriculum. Learning to communicate through spoken and written words was the underlying objective in the English department. The thoughts and aspirations of man were studied, too, through the literary works of the past, as well as the present.

A closer look at the history of mankind was to be found in the social studies courses. The culture, history, and problems of various societies were scrutinized in such subject areas as American history, World Cultures, Sociology, and Problems of a Democracy. Through discussions and study it became very apparent the world was becoming smaller and peoples of all nations must live together in harmony.

Foreign languages offered at South High, helped to bring the Spanish and French-speaking people nearer. Learning to speak in these tongues brought more understanding of their heritage and culture.

In an up-to-date language laboratory, students learn to converse in foreign languages. Candy Loudenslager discovers Spanish can be fun.

And Provide Background For Understanding

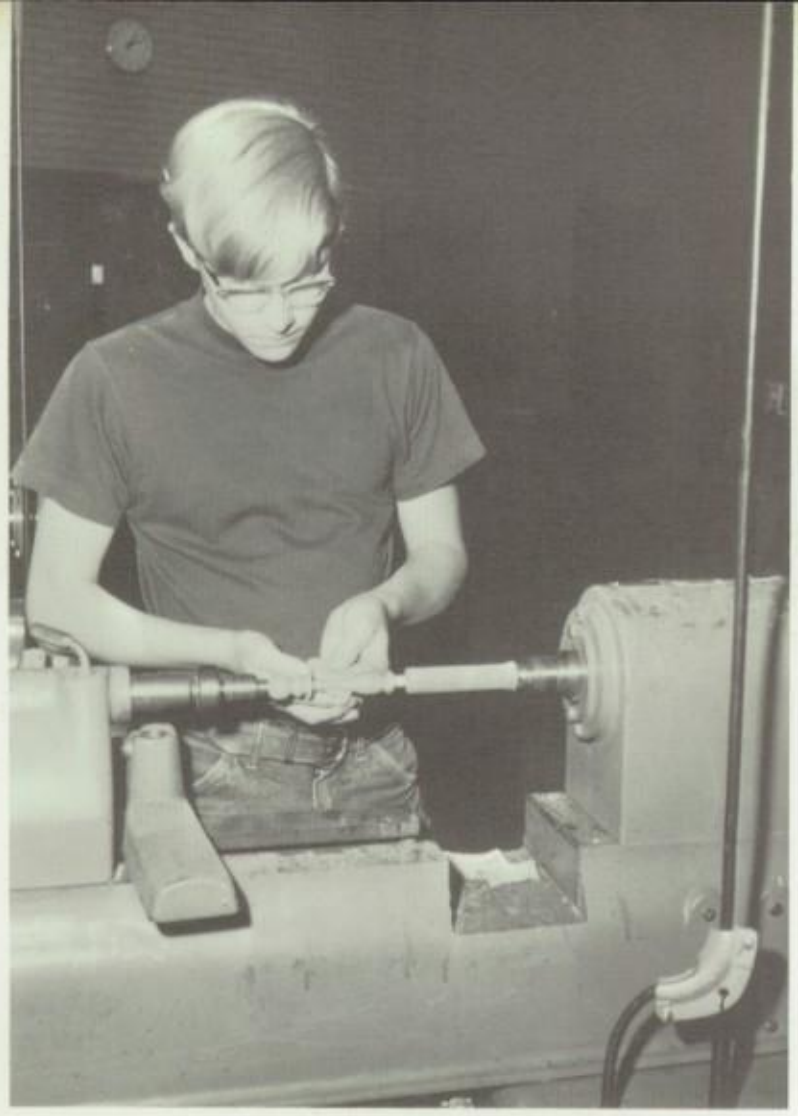
From campaign speeches to the ballot box, students experienced the democratic processes of a presidential election. Amy Byers (above) speaks to the student body in behalf of her candidate. In a mock election, Tom Garson (right) deposits his ballot.



Training of the mind was not the only task of the school, for training the hands was necessary, too. The industrial arts program offered basic instruction in wood and metal work, as well as mechanical drawing. Manual skills to be applied in vocations and hobbies were developed.

Training students to be good, as well as safe drivers was accomplished through the driver education classes. Classroom instruction for all sophomores dealt with mechanical aspects of a car and the development of safe-driving habits. "At the wheel" experience was offered to those juniors who desired to become a licensed driver.

Special Skills Were Recognized And Developed

Mechanical Drawing classes introduced students to the work and skills required of draftsmen. Here boys also drew-up the plans for projects they wished to execute in the metal or wood shops. Pictured at the left, Robert Bryan and Milton Walborn check their drawings before proceeding with the assignment.

Practical experience in the preparation of a luncheon was gained in home economics classes. Barbara Brown, pictured at the left, is preparing to serve fellow students the jello she made.

For Future Use In The Home And In Business

Sewing, cooking, interior decorating, and child care were a few of the areas stressed in the home economics course. Preparation of girls to be homemakers was applied learning, as in the industrial arts course, for what was learned in the classroom was executed in a well-designed home economics suite. The various "living" areas afforded practical experiences in what had been studied.

Students who wished to engage upon a career in the business world, were given training in typing, shorthand, business law, bookkeeping, business arithmetic and sales and office practice. Thorough preparation provided the business education pupil with the techniques and knowledge required in modern business, medical, and legal offices.

Familiarity with various types of office "machines" was a necessity in the training of business education students. Below, Charlene Simpson and Bernadette Steinbacher work at an adding machine.

Physical well-being of the students was fostered in the physical education programs. Boys and girls who, for one reason or another could not participate in the prescribed classes were left without beneficial physical activities and thus an "adaptive physical education" program was instituted. Still in an experimental stage, the new course provided specialized equipment and individual activities for those students requiring a vastly different approach to body development. In co-operation with physicians, exercises and games were designed for the individual student.

A course in the related arts was introduced this year as a pilot study for the Department of Public Instruction. Designed as a non-verbal course, it was a venture in developing sensitivity to, and awareness of art, music, theatre, dance, and film through direct contact. Experiencing the various arts and then, through student discussion of the experience, learning the basic elements of the art. Inter-relation of the arts was noted, as well as the affect of the times upon art and vice versa.

Traditionally rugged, the Blue and White team, mentored by veteran coach Rodney Morgans, continued its own special brand of hard-nosed football throughout a somewhat erratic gridiron season. The team's overall record was not a true indication of their abilities, for they were never out of any game they played.

Displaying spirit, pride, and determination, the Mounties forged ahead of their enemies during the first half in eight of the ten games played, but just could not get off the ground in the second half. There were action-packed moments that will long be remembered – the dazzling pass play from Wayne Swinehart to Kurt McKewen in the BEN game netting 69 yards – Steve Rupert's interception of a lateral pass followed by a breathtaking run of ninety-three yards to score – and the shattering of a South Side tradition as Tom Blanchard kicked the extra point, the first by placement in a decade.

Sparkling in their final outing in an effort to down Montoursville, their cross river rivals and league-leading champions, the team proved they were truly Mountaineers, as both seniors and underclassmen fought an outstanding last game.

South's basketball team succeeded in having another excellent season. Under veteran coach, Joseph Hamm and his assistant, John Woytowich, the Mounties finished 17–1 to capture the championship of the West Branch Conference.

The team was undefeated until the thirteenth game when they lost a non-conference game to St. Joseph High School in an agonizing contest, hard fought to the closing seconds, with a final score of 61–59. South was defeated only once in conference play. This was accomplished by a "psyched-up" Montoursville team which in the first half of play had fallen to the Mountaineers. Later in the season, revenge seeking South routed the Montoursville unit by twenty points for the championship.

A highlight of this season was the Bald Eagle Nittany game, when the Mountaineer cagers set a new conference scoring record of ninety-four points in a single game.

This year's team was a credit to the Mountaineer tradition and has surely set the goal for future teams.

Tough Competition

This year's wrestling team suffered agonizing defeats which neither discouraged nor disheartened the hard working Mountie matmen. They fought tooth and nail against every team that faced them. The fine coaching by Mr. Lee Williamson and Mr. Daniel Mausteller, plus the team's dogged efforts, resulted in South's continual rise in the West Branch ranks and made them a team to be reckoned with.

South blitzed to a 2–0 record in as many starts, but could not put the winning combination together in their next eleven matches, as they dropped all but three of them by one or two bouts. One of the thrillers of the season was with arch-rival Jersey Shore, in which the unbeaten and highly rated Bulldogs found themselves only two points ahead when the dust had cleared. This was an example of the high caliber wrestlers South produced this year.

Coaches Mausteller and Williamson were proud of their team's spirit and enthusiasm.

In his second year as head coach, Lee Williamson led the Mountie Thinclads to another successful season. During the season trackmen maintained a 5–3 record in dual meets by winning several last minute cliff-hangers. Overall, by including the Chief Logan-Jersey Shore triangular meet, the team finished 6–4

Along with the fine team standings, many event records were broken. In the first meet of the year, Joe Decker lengthened the triple-jump record by a foot and one-half, and Richard Henninger reduced the 440 time to a mere 52.9 seconds; John Steinbacher raised the pole vault bar to 12 feet, 3½ inches. The mile and two-mile relay team of Mutchler, Cipriani, Henninger, and Pearce trimmed the school records to a quick 3 minutes, 40.9 seconds and 8 minutes, 36.1 seconds respectively. This same relay team overwhelmed their competition at the District Meet by capturing first place with a record time of 8 minutes, 16.6 seconds. Frank Welsh broke his own record time for the mile and Frank Wysocki downed the old two-mile mark.

An athletic season would be incomplete without the cheering led by peppy and enthusiastic cheerleaders. At home and away, they were at all sports events to lead the fans in a variety of cheers which they practiced for many hours before and after school.

Besides the school athletic contests, the cheerleaders attended a cheerleading clinic and entered several interscholastic competitive events for cheerleaders. Both junior varsity and varsity groups were involved in competition and placed among the top cheerleading organizations.

At the annual Awards Day assembly, the cheerleaders presented the Mr. All-Sports trophy to Wayne Swinehart, the senior voted to be the most outstanding athlete.

Freshmen no more, the class of 1971 began their years as upperclassmen. Looking toward their own graduation three years hence, they worked hard this year for a place of high standing at South. The first step was the organization of the class and the assignment of home rooms.

To satisfy the growing need for space at South High, a large "mudroom" in the basement underneath the gym was transformed into three rooms. The sophomores occupied one of these, Room 2, along with Mr. Thompson, also new this year at South High. Room 102 was under the supervision of Mrs. Eisley until the start of the second semester when Miss Logue, a former student teacher at South, assumed those duties. Other sophomores had Mr. Bergesen in 204; Mr. Byham and his television set in 207; various insects, mammals, fetal pigs, and Mr. Barnhart in 210; and at the other end of the hall, Mr. Fowler in 218.

Elected to the Student Council from these homerooms to help formulate school policy were Linda Blanchard, Sharon Denius, Debbie Fenstermacher, Chris Malone, Lee Noviello, and Jan Williams.

In their first undertaking as a class, the sophomores captured the coveted first prize in the annual Mummers' Parade with their theme, The Jolly Green Giant. Their float bore a tall, eye-catching papier-mache giant astride a valley made of green paper napkins. A miniature locomotive, pulling tiny railroad cars filled with vegetables, preceded the members of the class who marched as a unit and wore farmers' costumes and ingeniously designed outfits representing many garden-variety vegetables.

Approximately 2400 boxes of Caschew and Caramel Crunch were sold as the class undertook their next project, the annual candy sale. Judging from the amount of candy sold, many a student had a "sweet-tooth", or cavities! Profits from the sale formed a nest egg for the future activities of the class.

Participation of sophomores in athletics was outstanding this year. The boys on the football team gained much experience which can be applied on the gridiron next year. Not content to lead the football team in numbers, the sophomore boys also used their strength and skill to good advantage on the wrestling team. Almost half the varsity wrestlers were sophomores and all involved performed admirably.

The organized activities of the class ended on April twentieth with the Sophomore Hop. After the decorating committee labored through that afternoon, the cafeteria was transformed into a carnival scene, complete with a carousel and gay booths. All who attended had a wonderful time at the Spring Festival.

Filled with excitement, the Sophomores led "The Jolly Green Giant" on to a victory.

Juniors Planned

THOMAS BLANCHARD
President

JAMES MILLER
Treasurer

The class of 1970 began its junior year in six homerooms; newly renovated Room 3 with Mr. Markulike; Room 100 with Mr. Snyder; the Music Room, 105, with Mrs. Engle; Mr. Belsanti in the Physics lab, 206; Mr. McKeague in Room 209; and Miss Foor in the language lab, 201.

Shortly after the opening of the new school year, the new class adviser, Mr. William Byham, brought the first class meeting to order. Officers elected at that time were Thomas Blanchard and Frank Welsh as President and Vice President, respectively, while Diane Chamberlain took over the secretarial duties and James Miller, the money matters. Susan Heim had been elected the previous year to keep the class history. A new idea was adopted and initiated by the class at this meeting. A committee consisting of two representatives from each homeroom was formed and called the "Junior Class Executive Board". This committee met to discuss problems and take action on matters pertaining to the class. Various money-making projects were approved. The class sold programs at all home football games and sponsored a post-game dance in the Junior High Gymnasium. Helping the Mummer's Association, they canvassed the community soliciting donations for the parade prizes. The selling of Lions Club birthday calendars was also a class project. The profits from this sale broke the record set the previous year.

Meeting after school, the Executive Board discusses plans for class activities.

An Active Year

Dressed as characters from the writings of Mark Twain, the junior class won second place in the annual Mummer's Parade. Drawing a float, which was an artistic replica of a riverboat, the students dressed in various costumes, recreated the legendary figures of a bygone era: Mississippi gamblers, Southern Belles, Tom Sawyers, and Huck Finns. The Miss Mountaineer Pageant returned to South High this year. At the last home football game of the season, in a colorful ceremony, the class was represented in the pageant by Gayle Heddens and Diane Chamberlin. The Juniors received their class rings in December. This years students had a choice of ring styles, either the design used in previous years or a new style incorporating a blue stone. The class presented a play, "The Willow and I", on March twenty-first and twenty-second. A responsive audience was present for both performances of the superb production.

The year was climaxed with the Junior and Senior Prom. The gymnasium was transformed into a beautiful "Garden of Eden" where the members of the class of 1969 were the guests of honor. Everyone enjoyed dancing to the music of the "Bel Aires". Refreshments were prepared and served in the lobby by members of the Parent-Teacher Association.

. . . a final walk through the corridors, past doors which had opened upon many experiences, and on toward the doorway leading to a place in the community.

SENIORS

Prepared for the unexpected, Mr. Byham receives a sample of Pat Scott's artistic ability.

In the fall of 1966, the Class of '69 began it's history. Elected at that time as class officers: James Pearce, president; Lon Edmonds, vice president; Karen Hoffnagle, treasurer; Sharon Hyde, secretary; and Eileen Wood, historian. Class flower, the carnation, and colors, blue and gold were chosen, too.

The first class project was their entry in the annual Mummer's parade. With a float and marching unit, the class placed third in school competition with the theme, "Sophs A-Go-Go."

One money-making project carried on by the class was the sophomore candy sale. Interest among the members made the project very successful.

Bringing the class activities for the year to an end, the sophomore hop was held in the school cafeteria. The theme, "April in Paris", was artistically carried out in decorative murals, sidewalk cafes, and a model of the Eifel tower.

The Class' History Began As Sophomores

The class of '69 began its junior year at South Williamsport Area High School in the fall of 1967. At the first class meeting, officers were elected for the new term. They were James Pearce, President; Thomas Klotz, Vice President; Sharon Hyde, Treasurer; Janice Nevel, Secretary; and Eileen Wood, Historian.

The members of the class occupied rooms 100, 105, 201, 206, 209, and 216. Homeroom teachers were Mrs. Ulrich, Mrs. Muzic, Miss Foor, Mr. Belsanti, Mr. McKeague, and Mr. Markulike.

For the yearly money-making projects, the class sold calendars for the Lion's Club, collected for Mummer's Association, and sold programs at all of the home football games. A float and marching unit was entered in the Mummer's Parade and won second prize with the theme, "Noah and the Juniors."

Three special occasions marked the Junior year. Class rings which were ordered in September, were distributed on December fifteenth. In April, the Juniors presented "Cheaper by the Dozen" as their class play to a large and receptive audience. The final event of the year was the Junior and Senior Prom with the theme, "Hawaii," given in honor of the Class of 1968. Juniors elected to the Queen's court were Janice Nevel, Lauralee Kehrer, Judith Gorini, Judith Heffner, and Eileen Wood.

The prom, which was held in the gym on May 24, 1968, climaxed the activities of the year.

Under the supervision of Jim Reigle, Michelle Ranck and Lauralee Kehrer work on prom decorations.

The senior year of the Class of 1969 began in the fall of 1968. Officers elected for the new school term were: James Pearce, president; Gary Larson, vice president; Sharon Hyde, treasurer; Janice Nevel, secretary; and Eileen Wood, historian. Miss Loomis was appointed adviser for the class.

A magazine subscription drive was the first project of the year. The Mummer's parade followed and the class again competed, this time with the theme, "Chinatown," and won third prize. It was not too long after this event when a humorous and delightful play, "Meet Me In St. Louis", was presented by members of the class.

Three senior girls were chosen to represent the school and the class in various events. Judith Gorini was selected for the "Flaming Foliage Festival" at Renovo; "Miss Mountaineer", was Eileen Wood; and Susan Haag was elected to represent South Williamsport at the State Laurel Festival at Wellsboro.

Activities for the year were brought to a climax with Class Day, Baccalaureate, and then graduation. Commencement exercises were held on the athletic field, the first such program to be held outdoors. With the presentation of the diplomas the class history came to an end.

Seniors Inducted Into National Honor Society

An honor key is presented to Jan Brown by Mr. McKeague, after her induction into the society.

At a special assembly, eleven seniors were inducted into the National Honor Society. In order to qualify for membership in the Society, the students had to earn thirty credit points. These credits were judged by a faculty committee. Fifteen points were awarded for attaining a ninety per cent average during senior high school, and fifteen points were awarded for extracurricular activities, service, and character.

The ceremony was highlighted by four junior class Student Council members who explained the four ideals of the Society: Scholarship, Character, Leadership, and Service. Qualifying seniors were called to the stage and, holding lighted candles, repeated the pledge of the National Honor Society. Following the induction, Mr. McKeague presented each member with an honor pin.

Seniors enter the auditorium to begin their Class Day program.

On May twenty-third, Class Day activities were presented to a large and receptive audience by the Class of 1969. Entitled "69 Review", the program consisted of short take-offs of television shows. The year's activities were reflected in skits such as "Captain Kazaroo", "P.O.D. Is a Many Rendered Thing", and "As the Stomach Churns". "You Asked For It" afforded seniors the opportunity to bestow gifts upon the underclassmen. A look at seniors in their future occupations was provided in the predictions of "The 21st Century". Programming ended as the "Bruntley-Hinkley" report related the history of "a small class with the big accomplishments".

Two important events of Class Day were the transfer of the school mantle from senior class president, James Pearce, to junior class president, Thomas Blanchard and the dedication of The Mountaineer to Harold L. Mutchler made by editor Beth Feinberg.

Class Day 1969 was concluded when seniors faced parents, friends and teachers to sing their class song, "My Cup Runneth Over", with original lyrics by Marlene Owens.

The profuse plots of flowers, vines, and bushes were dominated by a huge golden tree from which hung satiny, red apples. Under the tree was the throne for the prom queen, flanked by terraces of ferns and flowering plants.

Refreshments were served in the lobby by the grade mothers of the P.T.A. One end of the lobby was banked with flowers and greenery surrounding a pool of water. Just beyond were the golden gates opening into the garden.

. . . for learning came in many guises. Passive, as well as active involvement in school activities brought not only pleasure, but also new attitudes, insight, and awareness of the many facets of life.

ACTIVITIES

Assemblies Provoked

The Chessmen, Randy Allison, Dean Livermore and Rick Gathman, delight the audience with their folk-songs.

Mafia brothers Jim McLane, Bob Harmon, Mark Foucart, and Jon Sauers make hot news in the Christmas play.

Thought And Laughter

The students of South High were privileged to attend a wide variety of assembly programs during the year. Concerts, lectures, plays and panel discussions met the extensive range of interests of boys and girls in the school.

The first of several "special" assemblies was a film entitled, "The Wild Country". Of particular interest to nature lovers, this film gave a glimpse of the beautiful wildlife regions of the United States. A magician presented the program, "Variety Unlimited", and held the audience spellbound with his numerous feats of magic. An interesting and informative physical fitness program introduced the techniques of that age-old exercise, yoga. The Yogi's demonstration fascinated the students and faculty. In still another special assembly, reptiles were the subject of an informative, illustrated lecture. The student body saw how an expert handles rattlesnakes, cobras, and pythons.

Student and faculty planned programs included sports awards made to members of the varsity teams in football, basketball, wrestling, and track. Students in all areas of extra curricular activities were recognized for their achievements and service at the annual Awards Day assembly. A Thanksgiving Day play, directed by Miss Sanders, was presented by the Dramatics Club and Mr. McKeague's Student Council wrote and produced a hilarious Christmas play. A number of musical programs were presented throughout the year by the choral organizations and the bands. "The Chessmen", a trio of high school boys, entertained the students with their interpretations of folk-songs and ballads. Induction of seniors into the National Honor Society rounded out a year of interesting assembly programs.

An unexpected dinner guest, Amy Byers, doesn't seem to upset Karen Hoffnagle and Tom Klotz – it's just a Thanksgiving play.

"The Brothers and Sisters", Bonnie Davison, Nancy Celline, Lynette Coney, Pat Brown, Chris Coney, Fred Brown, and Elmer Coney sang swinging songs in the choral program.

Plumber, Jim Reigle in Dramatics Club production, "Apartment to Share."

Recreated Nostalgic Era

Excitement was mounting . . . the wonderful St. Louis World's Fair was going to be the most exciting event ever! Everyone was going to be there, that is, everyone except the Smith family. With much apprehension, Mr. Smith announced to his family that they must move to New York. The antics, outrageous pranks and subterfuge employed by the Smith's daughters in order to keep their father in the city kept the audience laughing on the evenings of November 15 and 16 when the Senior Class presented the hit comedy, Meet Me In St. Louis.

The play was under the direction of Miss Rebecca Loomis, assisted by Miss Angela Bugbee. Student directors were Janice Brown and Mark Foucart.

"Take that, you brute!" says Beth Feinberg as she makes an impression upon Tom Frymire.

In spite of Jenny Sortman's restraining hand, Ann Bozyk is determined to have Ron Jeselnik's leg for an in-between-meals snack.

"Won't you kids ever stop?" exclaims Mark Foucart, as Sue Haag, Ann Shuman, and Ann Bozyk pretend innocence.

Fearfully, Tom Blanchard bends over stricken Marie Mussare as Karin Scudder and Denise Heusle look on apprehensively.

Tender Romance Marked The Junior Class Play

"You can't bribe me, you old . . . ", Ann Bell warns Tom Blanchard.

A romantic drama, The Willow and I, by John Patrick was presented by the Junior Class on March 21 and 22. The production was under the direction of David M. Smith.

This play was the story of two sisters, Mara and Bessie Sutro, who both fell in love with the same young man. It was the gentle Mara that Dr. Todd loved but never married, because she was shocked out of reality when a gun was accidentally fired during an attempt to prevent her sister's suicide. For forty years Mara lived in the clock-stopped world of her summer wedding day. The violence of a sudden summer storm jarred Mara into the world again where she awakened to find herself an old woman instead of a young bride. Mara, no longer safe in her timeless world, discovered that Bessie had become not only Dr. Todd's wife, and widow, but the mother of his son. It was Kirk, so like his father, who gently and compassionately helped Mara to understand and accept the destiny her sister wrought for her.

An interesting sidelight of this production was that the script required two young boys. These roles were portrayed by two fourth grade students. Christopher Blackburn played "Bailey", the nephew of a maid in the Sutro household and Bradley Martin was "Duke Todd," the son of Kirk Todd.

Imaginative Entries

Weeks of clandestine meetings, whispered rumors, spying and counter-spying were brought to an end when the secret projects of the upperclassmen were revealed in the annual Mummers Parade on October twenty-second. The united efforts of the members of the various classes resulted in exceptionally well-planned themes executed in such a manner as to cause consternation among the parade judges in their selection of the winning entry.

Preparation of the various parade entries began weeks before the celebration of Halloween. Garages and cellars became the centers of construction of floats, the sewing of costumes, painting of signs, and the many activities necessary to produce an outstanding class project.

The Mummers Association entry, Sounds of Music, bore Judi Gorini, the queen of the Mummers, with her attendants Debra Oakes and Eileen Wood.

A Spring Festival

A carnival atmosphere prevailed at the Sophomore Hop, which was held in the high school cafeteria on March twenty-eighth. The lunchroom was transformed into a gay festive scene. Crepe paper streamers, sprinkled with multi-colored balloons, were suspended from the ceiling, suggesting billowy white clouds on a Spring day. Colorful murals, depicting various carnival scenes, were attached to the walls and formed a background for the small dining tables scattered throughout the room. Class members and their guests enjoyed dancing to the music provided by "The Avenue of Sound". Refreshments at the "Spring Festival" were prepared and served by the grade mothers.

Gymnasts Exhibited

Strength is the key factor with Mike Caschera and Rich Hankey.

"Look Mom, I'm flying!" says Tony Mignano as he goes over the Swedish Box.

Posing gracefully, Bernadette Steinbacher does her routine on the balance beam.

Individual skill and fine teamwork was displayed by the student gymnasts when the combined boys' and girls' gym clubs presented an exhibition and demonstration of floor and apparatus routines.

Under the direction of Miss Linda Benton and Harold L. Mutchler, members of the physical education staff, the gymnasts performed on the balance beam, high bar, flying rings, and other pieces of equipment. Their expert execution of various exercises indicated that much work had been done in many hours of practice to perfect each segment of the program. Work on the floor included acrobatic dancing, as well as precision drills in calisthenics and a tumbling demonstration.

A musical background for the event was provided by Tony Caschera and Anthony Mignano, adding the finishing touch to an outstanding exhibition.

School Events Reported in "Blue & White"

South Side students were informed of school events and student activities through the school newspaper, the Blue & White. Feature articles added special interest to the news and sports information.

Staff members met during club periods. Much of the work was done, however, during long sessions after school. Editors worked on the stories gathered by reporters and arranged the lay-out of the paper. Dummies were then pasted up and sent to a local printer for publication. Income obtained from advertising, subscription and bake sales was used to defray the expenses incurred.

The Blue & White editors were: Karen Hoffnagle, Editor-in-Chief; Dennis Leonard, Associate Editor; Karen Terry and Patricia Brown, News; Lauralee Kehrer, Feature; Mark Foucart and Ron Jeselnik, Sports; Mary Decker, Art; Tom Klotz, Business Manager; Ronald Moore and John Pompeo, Photography; and Ruth Morehouse, Circulation. # South Side Band Had An Outstanding Year

Drum Majorette, Debbie Steinbacher, leads the band in one of its drills.

This year proved to be a busy one for the band. Summer rehearsals led into the many rehearsals of the school term preparing music and drills for the half-time shows at the football games. One such show was done at Lycoming College this year.

The usual round of parades and exchange concerts kept the bandsmen busy, under the direction of Garland Markham. Parades included the Mummer's, Veteran's Day, Memorial Day, and DuBoistown Firemen. After presenting their annual spring concert, the band played at Loyalsock and Muncy schools, as well as an outdoor concert at Knoeble's Grove.

Representatives from the band were selected to play in the County Band at Montgomery High School. The majorettes, in competition with other schools won second place for their performance. All band members enjoyed a trip to New York City, sponsored by the Band Parents. A full year was concluded with the playing of the marches and selections at commencement.

THE CHORAL ENSEMBLE

Choruses Filled The Air With Song

Mingled with the songs of birds, the voices of the chorus members could be heard each morning before the school day began. The Choral Ensemble, consisting of thirty-six vocalists, prepared selections for various programs presented throughout the year. Participating in the annual Christmas Concert, under the direction of Mr. Smith, the group also sang before the student body at the junior high school and led a Carol Sing at the senior high. Their Spring Concert was also presented before the school bodies and to the public. The Baccalaureate Service for the senior class marked the last appearance of the chorus.

Seven members of the Choral Ensemble were selected to sing in the North Central District Chorus at Kane. Vocalists participating were: Carol Faust, Jenny Sortman, Debra Caldera, Janice Nevell, David Kaufman, David Stroup, and Dean Livermore. Dean Livermore was selected to sing in the state chorus.

THE GIRLS GLEE CLUB

"There Is Sweet Music Here"

Assembling in the lobby of the Lycoming Hotel, members of the Glee Club wait to sing for the Kiwanians.

There was, indeed, "sweet music here" when the Girls Glee Club sang. The sixty-four girls of the chorus presented several programs during the year. Their annual appearance before the Williamsport Kiwanis Club, the day before Thanksgiving, was the first recital. In December, the group was heard in the Christmas Concert and also sang before the student body of the junior high school. A small ensemble, selected from the glee club, performed for the P.T.A. at the senior-parents' dinner. The year was concluded with the Spring Concert and an assembly program at the junior high school and one at the senior high.

The glee club, comprised of girls in ninth through twelfth grade, was directed by David M. Smith. Accompanist for the chorus was Merilee Brennan.

Parlez–vous Français?

It's scrub-a-dub-dub for Chuck Phelps, Sherry Hillyard, Kathy Henninger, and Marcia Miele.

The French Club was organized in two groups this term in order to accommodate the large number of students wishing to be members of the club. A minimum of one year of French was required of all members. Club "A" consisted of first-year students. They elected as their officers, Christopher Spooner, president; Marcia Miele, vice president; Elaine Poeth, secretary; and Steven Spooner, treasurer.

Second and third year French students were members of Club "B". Officers elected by the group were: Ronald Jeselnik, president; Susan Nichols, vice president; Sandra Skinner, secretary; and Barbara Brown, treasurer.

Activities of both groups were directed by Miss Venturini, club adviser, and the officers. Bake sales and dances were held by the club, as well as a sports contest with the Spanish Club. Regular meetings of the club were entertaining and informative with programs designed to further members' knowledge and acquaintance with the French language and culture.

The Spanish Club, under the direction of Miss Carolyn Foor, was organized to promote one of the most popular modern foreign languages. The club made plans to see the play, "Man of La Mancha", in New York City and, on June seventh, carried out this objective. The club was organized into two groups, because of the great number of members. Officers for Club "A" were: President, John Roller; Vice-President, Sandy Morgans; Secretary, Joan Hosterman; and Treasurer, Terri Harrison. Club "B" officers were: President, Tim Maggs; Vice-President, Walter Pearce; Secretary, Susan Missick; and Treasurer, Lon Dawes. The officers were in charge of such projects as the bake sales and car washes.

. . . As The Romans Do

Members of the Latin Club were encouraged to take an interest in Roman life and history. Under the direction of Mrs. Margaret Smith, students were given an opportunity to participate in Latin games, songs, and plays. A Roman banquet was held in the spring for present and past members which was the main activity of the club. At the banquet, honoring a Roman deity, slaves were sold at auction and a queen was crowned. Latin Club officers for the year were Robert Patt, president; Melisse Rougeux, vice president; Susan Patt, secretary; and David Aston, treasurer.

The Library Club performed many useful services for the students at South. Their activities included preparing new books for circulation, mending old books, and filing catalog cards. Members of the club arranged eye-appealing displays to encourage fellow students to read more. Under the guidance of Miss Foresman the club met bi-monthly and formulated plans to make the library a useful and informative place for study.

Developing Leaders — The Object Of Hi-Tri

The development of leadership and responsibility was the main purpose of Hi-Tri. Under the direction of Miss Loomis, the club held monthly meeings at both the school and the Y.W.C.A. These programs were planned by Jenny Sortman, president; Lauralee Kehrer, vice-president; Bernadette Carducci, recording secretary; Susan Haag, treasurer and Sharon Hyde, corresponding secretary.

The club had many activities during the year including a hoagie supper, swimming and basketball at the Y.W.C.A., and a hayride in the fall. A trip to Eagles Mere was also planned by the club. In addition to activities for their own enjoyment, members also performed service for the community. At Easter, the girls donated candy to fill baskets for the residents of the Freezer Convalescent Home.

Final preparations for the annual Faculty Tea are made by Lauralee Kehrer and Jenny Sortman.

Key Club Offered Opportunities To Serve Others

Road rally results are waited for by anxious participants Linda Spotts, Kay Hassler, and Susan Spotts.

Service to the school and community was exemplified by the members of the Key Club. Their many activities included the collection of discarded toys during the pre-Christmas season as part of the annual "Toys for Tots" campaign. The grounds surrounding the high school building were kept looking neat through the efforts of a "clean-up squad" from the club. A "road rally," sponsored by the club members, gave interested students an opportunity to test their driving skills, as well as to learn and apply rules for safe driving. Representatives of the local Key Club attended the state convention at Mount Airy Lodge in the Poconos on March 14, 15, and 16, 1969.

Officers for the club were Gary Hessert, president; Rodney Morgans, vice president; Raymond Kinney, secretary; and Steven Helmrich, treasurer. The faculty advisor was Salvatore Belsanti.

Artistic Talents Served The School

The Art Service Club initiated many art projects under the direction of Mr. Meixel, club adviser. Working during their study halls, club members made signs and posters needed by various school organizations. The club also provided "pep ribbons" for all football and basketball games, as well as arranging displays in the exhibit cases throughout the building

This year's officers of the club were: President, Jim Miller, Vice-President, Mary Decker; Secretary, Richard Nevel; and Treasurer, Cynthia Larson. These officers supervised a bake sale and an art sale.

On "Awards Day", those art club members with at least ten hours service to the school were awarded pins.

Student Council Served With Distinction

The Student Council helped to improve activities of the school by fulfilling suggestions made by the students. One of the first activities was a bonfire on the football field as a pep meeting prior to the Montoursville game. At a pep meeting the Student Council honored a boy from the Senior class as "Miss" South Side. The members nominated three boys from the Senior, Junior, and Sophomore class. A panel of judges chose the reigning queen and "her" court. Shortly after this event South had its "Mountaineer Day". Miss Mountaineer was crowned at the football game that evening and the following night a dance was held in her honor. A Christmas play, written by Pat Scott, was presented by Student Council members. Other activities of the Council included the sale of candy at basketball games and wrestling matches and a hat-and-coat check at plays and concerts.

The adviser, Mr. McKeague, and the officers Richard Stuempfle, preisdent; Lauralee Kehrer, vice president; and Eileen Ciccarelli, treasurer, planned the activities of the past year with the help of various student body committees.

Council activities were directed by Eileen Ciccarelli, Richard Stuempfle, and Lauralee Kehrer.

Increased use of audio-visual materials in the classroom kept members of the A-V Club busy every day of the school term. Boys interested in the use and operation of the various types of audio-visual devices received the necessary training during club periods. Maintenance, making of minor repairs, and operative techniques peculiar to each machine was explained by the adviser, David M. Smith. The more experienced club members were called upon to serve as projectionists at assemblies, in club meetings and in the classroom.

Business World A Challenge To F.B.L.A.

Business education students found additional opportunities for learning in the extra-curricular activities of the "Future Business Leaders of America" club. The various business-oriented occupations were discussed to assist students in understanding the many facets of the business world. Members were encouraged to improve in scholarship and establish better standards for employment and thus assure the development of competent business leadership.

One of the most novel money-raising ideas was introduced by the club this year: an annual pickle sale. Proceeds from this venture were used to finance the activities of the club.

Officers elected by the members of the club were: Deborah Oakes, president; Janice Nevel, vice president; Debra Kitchen, secretary; and Judith Engler, treasurer. Charles Wagner was faculty adviser for the club.

Domestic Skills Intrigued Future Homemakers

Future homemakers, Sue Kimble, Judy Blank and Sharon Bubb look over F.H.A. by-laws.

Appreciation of the role of a homemaker was brought into focus through activities of the "Future Homemakers of America" club. Understanding the importance of working together in a co-operative manner was stressed in discussions, work projects, and social activities. The local chapter, through representatives, kept in touch with similar organizations through county and state meetings and conferences.

Club activities throughout the year were varied. A Halloween party was held in the Fall and at Christmas the members baked cupcakes for the children of the special education classes meeting in the Messiah Lutheran Church education building. An ice-skating party was held later in the winter.

Assisting Miss Angela Bugbee, club adviser, were the following officers of the organization: Sharon Nevel, president; Gayle Heddens, vice president; Darlene Childs, secretary; O'Linde Knarr, treasurer; and Gail Neufer, historian. Susan Kimble served as secretary of the county branch of "Future Homemakers of America".

The Future Nurses of America Club strived to acquaint members with various professions in the medical field, particularly the nursing profession. Guest speakers who attended F.N.A. meetings included student nurses, who gave accurate and interesting information about their work in the hospitals. The club visited the Williamsport Hospital and the Dental Mobile Unit.

Members of the club often helped with community projects. One such project was administering the "Tine" tests at school, others included assisting at various clinics. The club prepared baskets of food and clothing for the needy. Materials for these baskets were provided by the members themselves. To raise money for various projects, the club members held bake sales throughout the year.

Mrs. John, school nurse, served as advisor of the club. The officers were Nadine Bair, president; Blanche Eoute, vice-president; Cynthia Fox, secretary; and Diane Chamberlin, treasurer.

Future nurses Cindy Fox, Vonnie Stefanick, and Nadine Bair prepare a tray full of first aid materials.

Future Teachers Began to Crave Apples

"Teacher of the Year" trophy is awarded James Revello by Cynthia Fox.

A view from the other side of the desk was provided for students by the A.B. Elder Chapter of the Future Teachers of America clubs. Boys and girls interested in teaching careers become acquainted with teacher-training programs, the professional organizations, and some of the unique aspects of the profession.

Club members enjoyed a pizza party held to welcome new members of the group, as well as a "talk around" meeting with student teachers assigned to the school for their practice-teaching. Serving as ushers and guides, they caught a glimpse of the Lycoming County Teachers' Institute. Faculty members were presented an apple during American Education Week as a token of respect and appreciation by the club members.

Faculty advisors of the F.T.A. were Miss Ruth Beck and James Revello. Elected to serve as officers were Patricia Scott, President; Eileen Ciccarelli, Vice President; Cynthia Fox, Secretary-Treasurer, and Ann Shuman, Historian.

Gym Club Abounded In Muscles And Curves

Boys' and girls' gym teams were formed to give students an opportunity to work in advanced gymnastics. Students interested in membership were required to try out for the apparatus on which they wished to perform. Under the direction of Miss Benton and Mr. Mutchler the students held meetings and workouts regularly.

Officers elected for the girls' team were Judy Heffner, president; Judith Gorini, vice president; Sharon Hyde, secretary-treasurer and Lauralee Kehrer, historian. The boys' team also elected officers at their first meeting. They were Michael Shoalts, president; Michael Caschera, vice president; Steven Helmrigh, secretary and Richard Hanky as treasurer.

Besides working for their own satisfaction, the two teams also planned activities to demonstrate their talents. The teams performed for the P.T.A., the Loyalsock Junior-Senior High School students, and our own student body.

With a grin, Mike Shoalts goes over the Swedish Box.

Golf Club Swung Without Music

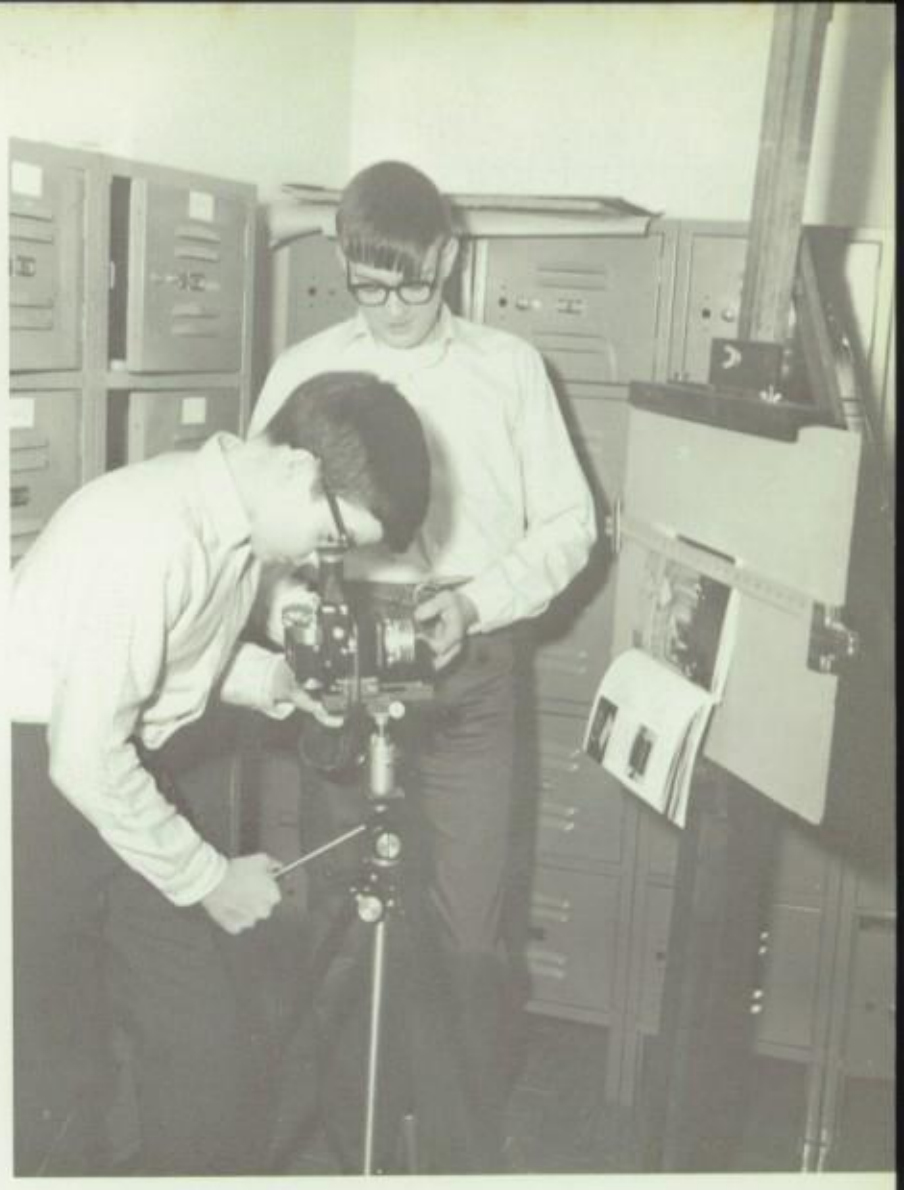
Stance and grip used by Dave Mittell is checked by Mr. Woytowich.

Golf, a sport for all ages, is a favorite leisure time activity. It became increasingly popular at South through the efforts of Mr. Bergesen and Mr. Woytowich, advisers of the Golf Club. Members of the group were taught the fundamentals of the game, as well as the techniques in the use of the golf club. An outgrowth of the club's activities was the formation of a varsity golf team. Although established late in the year, the future of this new varsity sport looked promising.

GOLF TEAM – William Mauro, Richard Reidy, Lon Dawes, Joseph Mauro, Richard Pasco, Timothy Hughes.

Students interested in photography were given an opportunity to further explore a most interesting hobby through membership in the Photography Club. Illustrated lectures and discussions concerning various types of photographic equipment helped the students improve their picture-taking. New camera techniqurs were applied to their work and the amateur photographers learned to produce interesting pictures.

The developing and printing of photos was introduced this year when the school dark room was partially equipped. The addition of an enlarger added even more dimension to the work and interest of club members. Under the guidance of Mr. Daughenbaugh, club adviser, the boys reproduced drawings, pages from magazines, maps, etc. on slides to be used by teachers as visual aids in their classes.



Photographing book pages was excellent practice in close-up work for Ron Moore and Dave Shaibley.

Dramatists Proved Theater Was Alive

Dean Livermore makes a hasty exit.

Practical experiences in theater were provided for interested students through the Dramatics Club. Fundamental techniques of acting, make-up, and set design were studied and demonstrated at club meetings and then applied in the presentation of two one-act plays. The first of these plays was presented before the student body prior to the Thanksgiving vacation and the second, a comedy, was performed in the Spring.

Club activities were under the direction of Miss Ruth Sanders, adviser. Officers of the organization were: James Reigle, president; Thomas Klotz, vice president; Amy Byers, secretary; and Donna Plocinski, treasurer.

Offstage, Dennis Leonard, Debbie Ritter, and Marcia Gould wait for a cue.

Interest In Chess Fostered By Club

To provide students with the opportunity to play chess and to teach interested students the same skill were the objectives of the Chess Club. The club encouraged friendly, but competitive interaction that was both stimulating and rewarding to the individual. A chess tournament among the members was the highlight of the year. Winners received trophies and medals in recognition of their acheivements. Mr. Albright, club adviser, hopes to establish interscholastic competition in area schools.

Club officers for the year were Gary Hessert, president; Donald Konkle, vice president; and Daniel Bower, secretary-treasurer.

An after-school game of chess is played by Chris Rapseik and Gary Hessert.

The year has come to an end and all too quickly our high school years have passed. We are grateful for the many experiences we have had, for our teachers who opened so many doors of knowledge for us, and for the lasting friendships we have made. The staff thanks the students and teachers who have helped to make this book a success. It is hoped that in the years to come this 1969 Mountaineer will be a pleasing remembrance for all.
